“ I met Bert through the music world, specifically in the Bluegrass Hub where we chatted occasionally and shared our love for music. A few years ago, probably in 2013 or 2014, I was assigned to a project in Groton, Connecticut, and had the chance to meet Bert face-to-face - he was kind enough to come and see me in Groton. We shared a couple of beers and food and two or three hours of chat. We stayed in touch after that, and a few weeks ago he asked me to help him save the music archives he'd collected on DVD and VHS over his lifetime. I tried to coordinate that, without great success, but I understand that the collection has made it to safe haven. Then, just a few days ago we spent a bit of time on facebook messenger, talking about music and sharing a bit of Old & In The Way. Bert knew his time was very short, and was, I think, at peace with that. I will remember him well for the rest of my own time here. One note, passed on from his family: please do not send flowers. There's a medical foundation that would appreciate your donation (<https://www.mds-foundation.org/>), and failing that, support your favorite musicians.

“ We are saddened by Bert's passing and will keep him and his loved ones in our thoughts.

I've only known Bert through the Bluegrass Hub where we both shared music files. We have spent many hours hangin out online with him talking about everything from the best Dead shows we have attended, new recordings shared, to pinball machines. He was one of the OG's in the hub and will be missed dearly. Come spring my wife and I will plant a tree in our yard for him, a pear or maybe a peach tree.

Our deepest condolences, Howie & Christine. aka Bodeaga & Kitten
