

Donald L. Saull II

April 7, 2019

Donald L. Saull II, age 52, formerly of Pilesgrove and currently living in Pennsville, passed away on April 7, 2019.

Donald's first and greatest love was writing. He published three books, wrote numerous manuscripts and was a prolific artist. In his first published novel, The Sun Children, his love for children is highlighted. A whimsical family tale of unity through the generations, as told by a loving Grandfather to his adoring Grandchildren. Donald's love for people was prominently displayed in Stuck in The White Zone and Chants and Whispers, his poetry publications. Donald is a graduate of Woodstown High School, attended Glassboro State College and completed Cape May Film School. His short film "Wish Fish" is featured on the Cape May Film School's website <http://newnjstatefilmfestival.com/film-camp/five-day-film-school/>

While Donald struggled with bi-polar disorder, he remained a 'gentle giant' to all who knew and loved him. He was an advocate for mental illness awareness and was extensively involved with NJ NAMI and Healthcare Commons throughout his life.

The world is a darker place without his presence, and we take solace in the knowledge that he is with his beloved Mother and Father in heaven.

“ Don and I had a special relationship. We shared humor, reading books, and talks about life. We also shared drawing and illustration, that I was not good at all. But Don encouraged me to keep on trying and complimented me even when the picture was horrible. He had a smile that would melt a rock. We also shared a love for his mother Virginia. The three of us would talk and laugh for hours about family, friends, acquaintances and most times, about everything and nothing. Don was a good friend to all, a nurturer and a loving individual who had many talents that were not listed above. I will miss him, but I know with all my heart he is at his peace with the Heavenly Father.
