“ Where to start. I was at St. Mary's Cemetery today when I saw Doris's plaque. I'm from Indiana, and make a yearly trip to the cemetery to visit my mom & dad's site, which is just a few sites away from Leo & Doris'. I graduated high school with Tim, and both families lived on F Street in Carney's Point, just 4 houses away from each other. Growing up my parents were literally best friends with the Peaks, and not a week went by where we were at their house, or they were at ours for card games. My dad died when in 1957, and Leo just 2 years later (both men were in their 40s). This formed an even tighter bond between my mom & Doris. Tim & I traveled in different circles in high school, and we lost complete touch after graduation. I heard they he had passed from another classmate. Every year at St. Mary's I always stopped by Leo's site and said a prayer for Doris and any remaining family members. That will continue even though she's now passed on. My deepest, deepest condolences to the family.
