Doris graduated from Penns Grove High School in 1948 and afterwards worked for the IRS in Camden and as a clerk for the duPont Engineering Department in Wilmington. After having Stacy, she decided to stay home, raise her daughter and work with her husband. Doris loved dancing, spinning around the dance floor with the love of her life Larney, spending time with her family and friends in their home in Stone Harbor, anything that had to do with Disney, traveling the globe with her husband and friends, and decorating for every holiday. She also loved spending time with her daughter Stacy and her granddaughter, Olivia, shopping, going for tea, and watching the Golden Girls while eating ice cream from Springers in Stone Harbor.

She is survived by her daughter Stacy L. Pennington and her granddaughter, Olivia C. Jennings Rodriguez and her husband, Gus. In Addition to her parents, she was predeceased by her husband, Laurence (Larney) and a brother, Donald C. Miller.
