

Frank J. Gross

July 19, 2013

Frank J. Gross, 61, of Pittsgrove passed away on July 19, 2013. Born in Philadelphia, Frank was the son of Frank G. & Angelina Gross. Although Frank retired from Archway as the Assistant Transportation Supervisor, music has played an important role throughout his life. Over the years he has played the drums in many bands but he was most known for his vocals and auto-harp playing. Some of the bands he has played with are P.I.L.T., which played often at the Electric Factory in Philly, Step Daddy, Corner Boys, Easy Street, Scare Crows and the Shakes. He was also a huge Phillies Fan going back to the days when they played at Connie Mack Stadium. In fact, when the family moved to Camden while he was a kid he would find ways to get over to that stadium. As a fan of the Fightins, one of his biggest thrills was being at the clinching game of the 1980 World Series and seeing the Phils when their first World Series.

His wife Patricia, children, Scott Gross and Nina Gross, his father, Frank G. and siblings, Joyce Fuhrmann, Rosemarie Urban, Kathy Ruckey and Dina Troxell survive him. He is also survived by a sister and brother-in-law, Debby and Charlie Unger, niece, Jennifer Belby her husband Mike and their children, nephew, Jason Unger as well as many more nieces, nephews and other family members. His mother, Angelina predeceased him.

A time to gather for family and friends and to celebrate Frank's life will be held at the Semper Marine Detachment 205, Marine Corps League, 2041 W Landis Ave. Vineland NJ 08360 on Thursday, July 25, 2013 at 7:30 PM. Interment is private. www.adamsfuneralhome.org
