“ When I think of Jim his name is always preceded by gentleman...Gentleman Jim, for he was a true gentleman in every sense of the word. Accepting, considerate, kind and thoughtful, gracious and generous. I first met Jim at Joe and Heather's wedding weekend celebration. He was there in the background doing what he could to help in his easy-going manner. A very nice seemingly quiet guy...until he hit the dance floor! I'll never forget Jim and Heather doing a spirited Macarena out there on their own! Truly delightful! After the reception, Jim followed us out to our car as we were getting ready to leave. Steve and I were in the beginning stages of our relationship at that time, figuring out our future together...as Jim was opening the car door for me he said "looks like you've got a good thing going, hang on to that!" I have often thought of those encouraging words in the last eighteen years that Steve and I have been together. Some of my fondest memories of Jim come from family celebrations, especially Thanksgiving dinners. He was the BEST turkey carver! When that turkey came out of the oven, he would assume his "position" with electric knife in hand and proceed to do a bang-up job carving. Jim would chuckle if I snuck up behind him to swipe a piece of turkey and say "you better watch out!" His half-smile tickled me as he sat in the middle of family chaos and noise, especially if it involved the grandkids. Jim was a hard worker and when he finished a job, it was perfect. I admired his wallpapering and painting skills and when I finished a project his comment "looks good" was high praise, indeed! SO many cherished memories of this man who touched hearts with his decency and goodness! It was a privilege and honor to have known him and he will be missed so very much!

“ Jim, you were a great man and I always admired how patient you were. I always appreciated how you loved and looked after my Mom. The two of you were a wonderful couple and Heather and I learned a lot from you. Our family isn't complete anymore without you. We love you and miss you
